

For foreign language teachers, all the sources listed on the sources page of this unit, as well as all the EU informational websites listed, are published in all 20 official EU languages. To teach this unit in the target language, teachers may request from Brussels these EU publications be sent to the school, or students can view the target language version of any EU website. Media publications, such as newspapers and magazines, may be utilized for current events articles in the target language. A few of the role-playing activities, such as the euro activity about ordering back-to-school clothes from foreign catalogs, could be done in a target language. Also, the European Central Bank in Frankfurt offers to send teachers high resolution prints of euro bank notes that could be used for role-playing. (The offer is on their website, which is cited in the lesson plan document.)
