Other Professional Experience

Founder and Editor, Legal Evolution PBC, May 2017 to present. Legal Evolution is an Public Benefit Corporation (PBC) with a mission to provide high quality public education on the changing nature of the legal services market. It supports an online publication that combines relevant academic theory with data-driven analysis and carefully drawn examples of successful innovations.

Founder, Institute for the Future of Law Practice (IFLP), January 2018 to October 2021.

IFLP was a 501(c)(3) nonprofit focused on building advanced curricula, curating industry-leading instructors, organizing internships and field placements for law students, and creating training programs for mid-career legal professionals. As director of development, raised approximately $1 million over four years; negotiated its acquisition in November 2021 by the Law School Admissions Council, which included agreement to fully fund IFLP projects for three years.

Co-Founder and Principal, Lawyer Metrics, Mar 2010 to Dec. 2016. Applied research company focused on the use of data by legal service organizations. In Dec. 2015, Lawyer Metrics was acquired by AccessLex Institute, a nonprofit data and education company.

Through numerous alumni investors, a substantial amount of the sale proceeds benefitted Indiana Law.

Online Asynchronous Courses

Creator of the Modern Legal Services Market (2023), an online asynchronous course for law students and legal professionals.

- Provides a detailed overview of the past, present, and future of the legal services market.
- Explains the factors driving structural change and the growing role of professional from allied disciplines, such as data, process, technology, design, and business operations
- Presents evidence of a paradigm change from a one-to-one consultative services model to one-to-many products and solutions
- Provides background information and statistics on British Columbia's Civil Resolution Tribunal, which makes case that access-to-justice is primarily a service design problem
- Includes 50-page booklet that is part of the Modern Law Practice Book of Knowledge (forthcoming LawHub, 2023).

Wrote, filmed, edited, and produced all content (seven chapters totaling 1 hour, 40 minutes of final footage)

Online Publications on Legal Evolution (applied research)¹

"The dollars and math behind Yale Law's withdrawal from USN rankings (340), Legal Evolution, November 20, 2022 (detailed look at the dollars and math that likely influenced Yale Law School's decision to withdraw from the U.S. News ranking) (2,728 words)

"Learning about law firms, Part III: Innovation at "Everybody Else" firms (335)," Legal Evolution, Oct. 23, 2022 (using the case study approach and related scholarship and research to discuss a new model of law firm that is (a) embracing professional management and (b) investing in new forms of law practice that leverage the power of data, process, technology, design, and business operations) (4,841 words)

"Learning about law firms, Part III: Innovation at "Everybody Else" firms (335)," Legal Evolution, Oct. 9, 2022 (using the case study approach and related scholarship and research to argue that the confederation is the default model of most large law firms, with the implication that owners of large law firms share only a limited amount of risk and engage in a limited amount of unified strategy) (6,297 words)

"Learning about law firms, 20 years in (330)," Legal Evolution, Sept. 25, 2022 (using the case study approach to argue that the business of law is best understood at the level of the small firm) (4,583 words)

"Three empirically based theories of national decline (book review) (321)," Legal Evolution, Aug. 7, 2022 (detailed book review of three empirically based theories of national decline. Ray Dalio's Principles for Dealing with the Changing World Order: Why Nations Succeed and Fail (2021), Mancur Olson's The Rise and Decline of Nations (1982), and Joseph Tainter's The Collapse of Complex Societies (1988)) (7,441 words)

"The end of the 'End of History' era (319)," Legal Evolution, July 31, 2022 (suggesting that the modern legal profession has implicitly adopted Francis Fukayama's 'End of History' thesis and therefore has become focused on its own prosperity, ignoring its assumed role of upholding the rule of law and constitutional democracy) (2,931 words)

"The original Gilded Age lawyers (312)," Legal Evolution, June 26, 2022 (using a careful analysis of the original Gilded Age lawyers to explore troubling parallels with the present) (7,441 words)

"State supreme courts and the challenges of PeopleLaw (287)," Legal Evolution, Feb 6, 2022 (discussing how state supreme court justices are, unwittingly, serving as regulators during a time of structural change and arguing that justices are poorly equipped to serve in this role, which has severe long-term consequences for access to justice) (1,841 words).

"Eight updated graphics on the US legal services market (285)", Legal Evolution, Jan. 23, 2022 (reviewing an array of statistics that reveal that the legal profession is both stagnating and struggling to serve its role in promoting access to justice) (3,041 words).

"Special Post: LSAC acquisition of IFLP explained (275)," Legal Evolution, Nov. 7, 2021 (discussing recent acquisition of the Institute for the Future of Law Practice by the Law School Admission Council; discussing the importance of providing T-shaped training as early as possible when the opportunity cost of learning is low)

"In-house is bigger than BigLaw (262)," Legal Evolution, Sept. 30, 2021 (providing an updated graphic that shows that in-house practice is now larger than BigLaw)

"Turf, hierarchy, and evolving professional norms (261)," Legal Evolution, Sept. 19, 2021 (noting a fragmentation in what counts as "knowledge" in the academy; illustrating thesis by discussing examples of legal blogs that have evolved into influential publications; noting that Legal Evolution has obtained an International Standard Serial Number (ISSN))

"Moneyball for law firm associates: a 15-year retrospective (257)," Legal Evolution, Aug. 29, 2021 (providing a detailed inside baseball retrospective of the use of Moneyball analytics in law firm associate hiring)

"Positively Conflicted (book review) (252)," Legal Evolution, Aug. 1, 2021 (review of book by Sam Ardery, who shares what he has learned about conflict from 4,000 meditation combined with his own journey to resolve his own inner conflict; noting that Ardery was Len Fromm's lawyer)

"Humble pie diet (241)," Legal Evolution, July 7, 2021 (discussing lively debate between Richard Susskind and Alex Hamilton whether mature law firms can evolve into a vertically integrated model that includes data, process, and technology combined with law; the answer is mostly likely "no")

"When is a generational strategy the best strategy? (235)," Legal Evolution, June 6, 2021 (defining the term generational strategy and providing powerful examples from the legal industry)

"Does the Kuhn cycle apply to law? (233)," Legal Evolution, May 23, 2021 (suggesting that the transition to one-to-many legal products and solutions is akin to a paradigm change that necessarily breaks along generational lines; discussing implications for law)

"The best metaphor for today's legal market is the auto industry circa 1905 (231)," Legal Evolution, Apr. 25, 2021 (presenting parallel between today's legal industry and the auto industry circa 1905)

"Just not good enough (226)," Legal Evolution, Mar. 14, 2021 (discussing the role of the Institute for the Future of Law Practice in equipping the next generation of legal professionals with the skills to build necessary legal infrastructure).

“Legal infrastructure and the forgotten story of the Restatements (207),” Legal Evolution, Nov. 1, 2020 (telling the forgotten history of Restatements of Law and suggesting that the legal profession needs to come together to build additional new legal infrastructure)

“Special Post: LexFusion offers new way to design, bundle, and buy one-to-many legal solutions (203),” Legal Evolution, Oct. 2, 2020 (discussing a new business model for consultative sales that is likely to accelerate the adoption of promising new legal industry innovations)

“The IFLP Case Study Method (202),” Legal Evolution, Sept. 20, 2020 (presenting a case study of how a legal department transforms its contracting process; concrete example of the discipline of legal operations)

“Lawyers and teamwork, Part II: Training (190),” Legal Evolution, Aug. 9, 2020 (Part II of an analysis on why lawyers struggle with teamwork, with a primary focus on training)

“Lawyers and teamwork, Part I: Motivation (188),” Legal Evolution, Aug. 2, 2020 (Part I of an analysis on why lawyers struggle with teamwork, with a primary focus on sources of motivation)

“Rocks on the back of first-generation college grads attending law school (182),” Legal Evolution, July 21, 2020 (presenting a large volume of quantitative evidence showing the disadvantages and obstacles facing first generating college grads who attend law school)

“What needs to change to improve mental health in the legal profession? (171),” Legal Evolution, June 21, 2020 (providing detailed analysis of ALM Mental Health Survey of the Legal Profession)

“I love to write, but it’s more important to build (154),” Legal Evolution, May 10, 2020 (making the case that it is time for the legal profession to invest in crucial infrastructure to improve productivity and access to justice)

“Rule Makers versus Risk Takers (140),” Legal Evolution, Mar. 15, 2020 (commentary on peculiar relationship between regulators and those willing to bear the risk of legal industry innovation)

“Losing my cynicism (131),” Legal Evolution, Jan. 1, 2020 (telling the inspirational story of the founding of the Jindal Global Law School by Rah Kumar)
